TAKE THE MISERY OUT OF MEETINGS

ALAN ADYNIC

ARE MEETINGS A PROBLEM?

Meetings, we love to hate them but we have to hold them. If you are going to get a group of intelligent, well compensated people in a room together it makes sense to use that intellect to accomplish something.

Too often meetings result in either lecturing to a passive audience or enabling a group of randomly opinionated participants to discuss but not decide much of anything, all resulting in ... another meeting.

Studies indicate that approximately 50% of all meeting time is actually wasted. How does that compare with your experience?

What is the hourly cost of your meetings? Some organizations spend enormous amounts of time in meetings and the hourly cost can run into thousands of dollars.

Ever feel like the primary purpose of the meetings you attend is to have another meeting?

When was the last time you left a meeting feeling like "that was a great, we really accomplished something"?

If any of the questions above resulted in a deep sigh, the Coach 2 Engage Get A GRIP on Meeting Facilitation guide is just what you need.

Our guide is designed to help you generate participation, make decisions, create action, build engagement and achieve purpose through better meeting facilitation.
